Friend of the Evening Post Calls This Paper For Further Proof.

Does Not Believe There Are Any A. P. A.'s in Louisville.

Calls "Columbus Day Bill" a Monstrosity of Worst Kind.

THE POST'S AWFUL BACKDOWN

The fair-minded people of Louisville have been waiting anxiously for the answer of Richard W. Knott, of the Evening Post, to the queries published in the Kentucky Irish American last week in regard to the connection with the People's A. P. A. ticket for School Commissioners in the recent election, but so far have been disappointed. Mr. Knott evidently pleading guilty to the charge that he knew of the compromise made just before the election to drop Mr. Egan and Mr. Searle, of the O'Brien ticket, for Gottschalk and Weaver, of the A. P. A. ticket, nor does Mr. Knott deny that Mr. Egan must have received over 6,000 Catholic votes out of his total vote of 7,222. Does that not prove that the word was passed to knife these two gentlemen, and especially Mr. Egan, because of his religion?

The Kentucky Irish American has received several anonymous communications this week in regard to this matter, which as a general rule are ignored in all newspaper offices, the writers of this class of literature usually being placed in the category of the man who would stab you in the back, but one in particular, who signs himself "A Protestant," earnestly challenges the sincerity of several features in last week's article and doubts their truth. For instance, he questions the truth of the statement that a Catholic rectory was stoned on election night and bad to be given police protection. For this gentleman's benefit this can be proven by looking up the records of the Seventh district police station, or if the writer will call at this office he will be given the name of the clergyman whose place was attacked and whom this paper has spared the notoriety accompanying a publication. The writer also doubts the existence of A. P. A.'s in Louisville and wants this paper to point out a single one. In answer to this the anonymous writer will be referred to Richard Hackett, organizer of "Uncle Sam's Boys" (an A. P. A. organization strictly), which meets in Parkland, Hackett residing at 1370 Beech street, and T. S. Givan, who circulates A. P. A. literature, his recent effort being Freedom's Banner, a vile anti-Catholic sheet, and if the writer wishes to locate some more of the kind try the Junior Order of United American Mechanics here, whose motto is "opposition to some foreigners" (meaning Catholics).

In another paragraph the anonymous writer attacks the Kentucky Irish American and Catholics in general for the passage of the "Columbus day" bill, which he calls a "monstrosity," but evidently overlooks the fact that this bill was carried in both the Kentucky Legislature and Senate, 90 per cent. of which were Protestants and signed by a Protestant Governor, these men being of that fair-minded class who do not hesitate to honor a man regardless of his religion, and that men whom Catholics take pleasure in supporting for any office. In answer to the Evening Post's connection with the School Commission, it was stated in these columns last week that David Rose, one of the Post managers; Edward Gottschalk, newly elected Commissioner, and John Cowles, their choice for Secretary of the Commission, were the owners of the Standard Printing Company. Just previous to the election the Post printed Gottschalk's picture, telling of his attainments and record as former School Trustee, while at the same time supposed to be supporting the Citizens' ticket and Cowles, their choice for Secretary of the Commission, is an ex-Democrat, who served as Chief Deputy in the County Clerk's office until ousted by the election decision. The connection between the A. P. A. ticket and the Evening Post should be plain even to a man ashamed to sign his name.

During the recent campaign the Evening Post abused Col. John Whallen to the fullest extent, encouraging the bell ringers who went through the streets with push carts and wagons labeled "Down with Whallenism," and even continued its abuse after election, so it must be hard for the average citizen to reconcile himself to Post statements in the future after seeing the following in its columns Tuesday when threatened with a libel suit for accusing the Colonel of attempting to raid the school treasury:

"The Evening Post desires to reiterate the suggestion that this is an implication upon the personal integrity of Col. Whallen. On the contrary, it sought to state and believes it stated that this action was due to political activity on the part of Col. Whallen. If there still remains in the mind of Col. Whallen, or in the minds of other readers of the Evening Post to whom he refers, a belief that the Evening Post intended to charge that he had attempted to make some sort of a raid on the school funds, had endeavored to make a personal profit for himself at the expense of the revenue of the schools, that he had tried to coin alleged political influence into a corrupt financial gain, we want to correct that erroneous impression; we want to disavow that implied accusation, and we want to assure him and careless readers among his friends that the Evening Post has never had in mind any accusation against the personal or financial integrity of Col. Whallen. "We believe that through his business activity and fortunate investments he has raised himself above such temptations, and in the long series of articles which have appeared in the Evening Post, criticizing his political activity, we do not believe that any impartial reader can find any such accusation or implication. As Col. Whallen is sensitive at present, and seems to have among his friends a large number of readers bent upon the misconception of articles in the Post, we wish to say that they do both Col. Whallen and the Evening Post an injustice by these ascriptions and implications."

UNITED LEAGUE

Issues a Better Manifesto Against House of Lords.

The political campaign in England is now in earnest and is waging with a fierceness almost unknown in that country. The United Irish League on Tuesday issued a manifesto against the House of Lords, calling landlording and the House of Lords synonymous. The manifesto, which is signed by John E. Redmond and T. P. O'Connor, is a violent arraignment of the House of Lords as the only obstacle to home rule. It describes Lansdowne as "an Anglo-Irish landlord whose family name is written deep in that coffin ship, the Lansdowne Hospital ward, and in thousands of unmarked graves where perished our people driven from the Lansdowne property in the days of the famine."

"At the doors of the House of Lords," continues the manifesto, "lies mainly the guilt for all those who are for an increase in land power and for the rejection of all measures for tenant relief, whereby the great famine and the great exodus were the plain and direct consequences, and to every Irishman of this generation appeal the voices of a million of our people who died of hunger and five million driven to exile to endorse the indictment by which they owed their boundless suffering. True to its iniquitous history, the House of Lords alone today stands athwart the path of Irish victory. Its fall is the rise of Ireland. If this election is won, the battle for home rule is won."

The manifesto proceeds to quote numerous declarations of Premier Asquith and Chancellor Lloyd George, committing the Liberal party to the policy of home rule. Referring to the "Dollar bogey," it says: "No American dollar for the cause of Irish freedom; millions of American dollars for the sacred rack rent! Such is the cry of the Tory party."

HARD BLOW

Given Socialism at Reception by Knights of Columbus.

Socialism and its relation to the Catholic church was aired at the reception for the Catholic delegates to the American Federation of Labor by the Knights of Columbus at their hall in St. Louis Sunday night. T. J. Duffy, of Ohio, a delegate to the Federation and a member of the Knights of Columbus, making the statement that the doctrines of the movement were directly opposed to the teachings of the Catholic church, and that therefore should be considered an enemy of the church.

James O'Connell, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, delivered a lengthy address, lauding the Knights of Columbus and drawing a favorable comparison between the order and the American Federation of Labor, giving the purpose of each as the uplift of humanity. O'Connell paid compliment to the Catholic church, saying that if it was taken from organized labor nothing would be left, the same holding good provided organized labor was eliminated from the Catholic church. He said individualism in organized labor had long ceased to exist, and every member of the institution was but a single cog in the immense wheel generating energy to be expended in the bettering of the condition of the working man.

The Knights of Columbus Choral Club sang, and Archbishop Glennon delivered a short address.

MARY CLARE DEAD.

Mrs. Mary Clare, widow of the late John Clare and mother of Francis Maher, passed peacefully to her eternal reward last Saturday night at her home, 118 North Twelfth street. Her funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Patrick's church and a long cortege followed her remains to St. Louis cemetery. Mrs. Clare was one of the older residents of St. Patrick's parish, and her exemplary life, happy disposition and sympathy for any in sickness and distress made her a wide circle of friends who will grieve for the repose of her soul.

DEDICATED.

Impressive Services Last Sunday at St. George's New Church.

Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue Preaches Instructive Sermon.

Will Stand a Monument to Energy of Rev. Father Weiss.

MANY PRIEST WERE PRESENT

Last Sunday morning the band-new church of St. George, at Eighteenth street and Standard avenue, was solemnly dedicated to the service of God by the Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue, Bishop of Louisville, assisted by many clergymen and church dignitaries. The dedication was marked by the solemn and impressive ceremonies practiced only in the Catholic church, and in which all of that faith are ever eager to participate. The blessing of the church was followed by a solemn high mass, celebrated by the Rev. George A. Weiss, pastor of St. George's congregation, and a sermon by Bishop O'Donoghue.

The services began promptly at 10 o'clock. The visiting prelates assembled in the rectory a short time before the appointed hour, and there formed into procession. Bishop O'Donoghue was attended by the Right Rev. Edmund M. Obrecht, Abbot of Gethsemane; the Very Rev. James P. Cronin, Vicar General of the diocese; Father Weiss and Father E. Schmitt. The latter was master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Fathers Thome and Monaghan acted as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. In addition to the Bishop's attendants and a large number of priests there were about fifty acolytes, wearing their purple cassocks and lace surplices and carrying lighted candles. This long procession left the parochial residence at 10 o'clock and walked to the entrance of the new church. There the Bishop offered a prayer of thanksgiving. At the conclusion of this prayer the procession marched about the outer walls while the Bishop blessed the stones. The procession then filed into the sanctuary, where the Litany of the Saints was chanted. When this was ended Bishop O'Donoghue prayed for God's blessing on the new church, its pastor and the members of the congregation. He also asked that divine providence might grant prosperity in the land, peace among the nations of the earth and wisdom to all officers of the city, State and nation, so that they may rule wisely. The inner walls of the church were then blessed. The solemn high mass of thanksgiving was then sung by the Bishop, with Father Thome acting as deacon and Father Monaghan, the Bishop's Secretary, as sub-deacon. During the mass Bishop O'Donoghue addressed the large gathering. He said in part:

"This is a happy day for you, my dear friends, and for your beloved pastor, but it is one that is just as dear to my heart as your Bishop. I am happy, not so much to look upon this handsome pile of stones and admire it for its beauty, I am happy because the completion of this church speaks well for the fidelity of this parish to Christ and his holy religion. You have made sacrifices that you might erect this temple, but for whom have you done it? For the blessed Lord. Men of old built their shrines and temples to appease the wrath of their god or to court his favor, they lavished gold and precious stones, thinking that the filer the temple the better would be their treatment at the hands of the great spirits. But this is not the way of Christian peoples. We build our churches to glorify our house Jesus Christ Himself. True, He is pleased when his children come to worship Him, even in the missionary's hut, but we are not willing to provide so mean an abode for the God who has been so good to us. Yes, my friends, this should be a happy day for you all. It marks a new era in your growth, and you must push forward, remembering that once you stop there is danger of going backward. Remember that in this church Christ is ever present, ready and eager to hear your prayers. He has said, 'My house is a house of prayer,' and you must make it such. Let us become more like the Christians of the early days, who looked to the blessed Lord for their every want; who went to Him and told to Him their troubles and poured out their very souls in expressions of love and fealty. Let us take Him as our model and live as He would have us live, remembering all the while that the true Christian life brings not only happiness here but eternal peace in the kingdom to come."

At the close of his sermon the Bishop bestowed the episcopal blessing. After the ceremonies all the priests were the guests of Father Weiss at a dinner given in honor of Bishop O'Donoghue. Following the blessing of the handsome statues the Rev. Oscar Ackermann, D.C.L., of St. Philip Neri's, preached a powerful sermon on "The Christian Church and the Christian Life," the services being concluded with benediction.

IMPOSTER.

Who Posed as a Priest Is Placed Under Arrest.

Denounced by Cardinal Gibbons as an imposter and immediately arrested and taken to the Central police station at Baltimore last Saturday Paul West, alias Frank Hume, alias Henry Knowlson, who has been posing as a Catholic priest, placed a revolver to his breast and tried to send a bullet through his heart. The bullet was stopped by the heavy overcoat worn by the man and he suffered no injury. The prisoner made the sensational attempt at suicide in less than ten minutes after he had an interview with the Cardinal, and it is believed that the latter was in grave danger while the armed man was in his presence. West was taken before the Cardinal, who addressed a few questions to him. They were not answered in a satisfactory manner and the Cardinal, turning to the officer, said:

"Keep this man under arrest, he is not a priest. He is an imposter." West, Hume or Henry Knowlson, for the prisoner is known to the police of Washington and Baltimore by a number of aliases, was arrested at the instance of W. D. Ford, an employee of the Salomon Company, lithographers and stationers. About four weeks ago he visited the Falconer concern under pretense of getting estimates for lithographic work, and while in the store took a number of blank checks. He took the checks to Washington and there used them in a series of daring swindles. The Baltimore police also claim that he passed a number of worthless checks in Baltimore, pretending that he was employed at Notre Dame College, near Guilford. He was dressed as a priest when arrested. The police say that West has posed throughout the country as a United States Food Inspector, a Catholic priest, and while in Washington represented himself as a Lieutenant Commander in the United States navy. West is wanted in Washington on a number of serious charges.

RECENT DEATHS.

The funeral of James McKiernan, for many years engaged in the grocery business, took place Wednesday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church. He was born in Ireland sixty-six years ago, but the greater part of his life was spent in this city, where he had been quite successful. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen McKiernan, and many relatives.

Philip Edward, the bright and lovable infant son of William E. and Belle Greenwell, 703 East Chestnut street, was claimed by the Angel of Death last Friday and his remains new repose in St. Louis cemetery. The little one was but six months old, and death came after an illness of but slight duration. The sympathy of many friends has been extended to the parents in their bereavement.

Miss Mamie Morgan, daughter of Michael Morgan, 944 Dumeeil street, was released from earthly suffering Saturday morning, after a long illness of tuberculosis. She was possessed of many fine traits of character, and the sorrow her death occasioned was evidenced by the large attendance at the funeral at St. Louis Bertrand's church on Tuesday morning. Besides her parents she leaves one brother, Michael Morgan, Jr.

John Lannin, a well known and highly respected member of the Dominican parish, was called to his eternal reward Saturday morning, death resulting from a complication of diseases. Born in this city forty-three years ago, his mature life had been spent in the carpenter business. One brother, Lawrence Lannin, yardmaster for the L. and N. at Russellville, and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Meehan, 1367 South Sixth street, and Miss Mary Lannin, survive him. The church was filled Monday morning with a solemn mass of requiem at St. Louis Bertrand's church, which was filled with mourning friends.

DEPUTIES MEET TOMORROW.

The recently appointed Supreme Deputies for the Catholic Knights of America have been called to meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. Mary's Hall, when an organization will be perfected and plans outlined for the winter's work. The Supreme Council will be represented by Major Gen. Michael Reichert, State Secretary William T. Meehan and Eugene McCarthy, President of the Central Committee. A schedule will be arranged and visits paid to every branch in the Falls Cities.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

An interesting meeting of the Catholic Knights of America was held in Jeffersonville on Monday night, when Deputy F. R. DeLoe paid the branch there his first official visit. Accompanying him were State Secretary William Meehan, Eugene McCarthy and William M. Higgins. Under the good of the order the visitors were called upon and submitted statistics showing the solid foundation upon which the Catholic Knights of America now rest. Patrick Tracy, Bernard John Kinney were pleased to have the Deputy and visitors with them, and after the adjournment entertained them in a most hospitable manner.

UNION LABOR

Has Always Enjoyed the Sympathy of the Catholic Laity.

Priest Delegate to the American Federation of Labor.

Church Always Champion of the Aspiration of the People.

HITS THE PARASITIC INDUSTRIES

That the Catholics of this country are in sympathy with organized labor and the uplift of the workingman was forcibly set forth in the address delivered before the American Federation of Labor last week by the Rev. Peter E. Dietz, of Oberlin, Ohio, fraternal representative of the American Federation of Catholic Societies and the first priest delegate in the history of the great American labor body. Father Dietz, who represented an organization numbering over 3,000,000 men, whose primary object was a defense of the rights of the Catholic citizen and the elevation of the standard of American citizenship, said in part:

I am proud that it is my privilege to be the first man to represent the American Federation of Catholic Societies in your body. It is not necessary to assure you that you enjoy the sympathy of the great organized body of the Catholic laity in the United States, for that sympathy has always been with you, and if proof were wanting it could be found in that fact that a very large part of the men who are in the service of the trades union movement owe spiritual allegiance to the Catholic faith, and I dare say that their Catholic faith has never stood in the way of their trade unionism. You yourselves will attest that they have been as loyal to you as the most loyal among you; that they have stood shoulder to shoulder with you, that they have borne with you the brunt of every battle, and today they sit honorably with you in this convention. Trades unionism has always been a part of the Catholic system of thought. It may not have been in that name, but the substance of it, according to the times and the modifications of circumstances, has always been a part of the Christian civilization of the past. I need not enter into details, for any fair student of economic history will satisfy himself that the Catholic church has not stood in the way of the just aspirations of the people, but has ever been their champion.

But today I do not wish to speak of what is past. I wish to tell you what is our conviction today. It is our idea that society is built upon the unit, the family is built upon the unit, the State is built upon the unit. As we look out over the State we notice it is an industrial State. As an industrial State it rests upon industrial society, and industrial society to a great extent rests upon the trades unionism. In fact we can say that trades unionism is the very backbone of industrial society, and therefore the great problem of social reform is largely the problem of trades unionism. We have witnessed in the nineteenth century a great democratic movement. We have noticed everywhere how the power of government or of forming the government has passed from the hands of the few into those of the great masses of the common people. It is not necessary to examine the causes, but it has forced the legislatures of every civilized land to give a larger share of its work to the social problems, to the adjustment of the relations of the workmen and the employers, of the rich and the poor. The poorer and weaker portion of the population is made up of working men. They form the greatest part of the population and it is meet and just and right in a democracy that they shall have the greatest share in making and in the administration of the law, and that they are entitled to the largest benefit of the law.

But we realize that the protection of the State can not be enduring unless it is sustained by labor organization. The very fact that the country gives continued evidence of social dissatisfaction and disaster is proof to any thinking man that society is not sufficiently organized. If every industry were organized, the parasitic industries that take and use up the life-blood of the successful relays of working men, casting the worn-out toiler on the scrap heap, to be taken care of by the community, would cease to exist or would have to be amended. We maintain two great principles which we have never denied, and which we do not deny now. We insist that it is wrong to tolerate the cut-throat competition among employers; and on the other hand the sham competition of individual bargaining between master and working man. It is right to regulate trading and to have collective bargaining. We are confronted sometimes with tales of trade union tyranny. In the words of Charles Stanton Devas, a Catholic political economist, it is our conviction that 50 per cent. of these tales have their birth in the heated imagination of antagonists, that 25 per cent. arise out of misunderstandings, and of the remaining 25 per cent. a part may be justified, leaving a remainder to show that trades unionists, like other people, are subjects to human infirmities. It is but common sense therefore to give encouragement to trades unionism which is not and can not be, if it is true to itself, a center of atheism and revolt. The American Federation of Labor has succeeded in elevating the standard of living, not only for the 3,000,000 men and their families who make up its membership, but also for untold millions who ignorantly or ignominiously profit by its work and its sacrifice. What was said by John Mitchell in 1902 at Wilkesbarre has always appealed to me. He said it was a pity that so many, failing to understand the fundamental principles and the lofty ideals of trades unionism, condemn without investigation the motives and the policies of those whose mission it is to relieve suffering, redress wrong and raise to a higher standard of life those who are as defenseless in their individual capacities as a rudderless ship in an ocean storm.

GAELIC LEAGUE.

Representatives Will Visit Principal Irish Centers.

Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, who is known to many residents of Louisville, and Flonan MacColum, envoys sent over here by the Gaelic League to arouse interest in the Gaelic language among Americans of Irish birth or descent and others sympathetic with language history, and incidentally to turn this interest to practical account for the league, have opened headquarters in the Emmett Arcade, at 624 Madison avenue, New York City, and are preparing an active propaganda. One of the first steps will be a big reception to the delegates, which has been arranged by New York men of Irish origin to take place at the Grand Central Palace next month. Justice Martin J. Keogh will preside and Father O'Flanagan will speak on the work of the Gaelic League in Ireland.

Mr. MacColum says that he and Father O'Flanagan will remain in this country for at least nine months and will visit all the principal Irish centers. "We shall explain," said Mr. MacColum recently, "what the Gaelic League is doing in Ireland for the revival of the old traditional language of the Irish people and for the restoration of the traditional civilization and customs of the country, especially in the way of music, literature, songs, dances and pastimes."

ARE NOW ONE.

Pretty Double Wedding at Church of Our Lady.

The prettiest of the many double weddings witnessed in the West End was celebrated with a nuptial mass at 3:30 o'clock Thanksgiving morning at the Church of Our Lady in Portland, with the Rev. James J. Coniff officiating. With the stars and sanctuary tastefully decorated and ablaze with lights the scene was a brilliant one, and the large attendance of friends and men manifested the wide interest in the happy event. The contracting parties were John Regan and Miss Gertrude Medley and Joseph Murphy and Miss Leona Michell. Miss Claudia Medley, of St. John, was the maid of honor, and Messrs Harry Doerr and Ralphy Guthrie were the ushers. Miss Medley is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Medley of St. John, and is a pretty and cultured girl. John Regan is the chief engineer for the American Ice and Cold Storage Company and a son of Superintendent Patrick Regan, and is one of the best known young men in the city. Miss Michell is an attractive young woman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Michell, of New Albany. Joseph Murphy is a well known and popular young man of this city. Following the ceremony the bridal party was entertained at an elegant wedding breakfast at the home of Mrs. Minnie Guthrie, 2317 High avenue, a relative of the bridegroom. At 8 o'clock the happy couples left for the East, where they are now enjoying their honeymoon.

PRIEST AND THE PRESS.

In his closing sermon to the women of the Cathedral parish at Indianapolis Rev. Father Rose, C.M., spoke of the duty of Catholics to sustain the Catholic press, and said in part: "Every Catholic family should take a Catholic paper. There are many good Catholic papers. You ought to take some Catholic paper. No home ought to be without one. The Catholic press is the only public vehicle we have for the defense of the faith. We have many instances of this. The daily papers suppressed the facts about the Oriental Masonic plot at Montreal. Your Catholic press did its duty in exposing it. Choose your own Catholic paper. All are good. As I have said, there should be a Catholic weekly in every Catholic home."

BUILDING FOR MEMPHIS.

Chickasaw Council, Y. M. I., of Memphis, is behind a movement for the erection of a Catholic club house where the young people of that city may meet to enjoy themselves. Sunday before last the pastors in all the churches drew attention to the need for such a building, the plans for which meet their approval.

TORIES

Are in Terror On the Eve of Next Month's Battle.

Protest Against the Approaching British Election as Iniquity.

Liberals Sure of Victory and Home Rule Will Follow.

ATTITUDE OF HOUSE OF LORDS

In his latest cablegram to the American press T. P. O'Connor declares that never did troops go into a fight in such an abject funk as the Tories into the coming election. They all scream against the election as an infamous iniquity and some even confess that the election must end in Tory disaster. Even more amusing and disgusting is the attitude of the House of Lords. The same Peers who last year aroused every lover of freedom to rage by their insolent defiance of the popular will now crawl in abject terror. They are practically demanding an opportunity to sacrifice themselves. They will abandon not merely the hereditary principle, but even offer the sacrifice of half the entire number of the House of Lords. As one of their own friends said, "Never since the historic night of the French Revolution did the aristocracy offer to make so many sacrifices."

It is all hypocritical and all too late. The sacrifice of half the present number would mean that the Tory majority in the House of Lords still would remain, that while Liberal measures would be certain of defeat by the stereotyped Tory majority the Tory measures would be equally sure of full acceptance. Asquith's Ministry is acting with great courage and consistency in facing these tactics of delay and make-believe. Asquith declined to listen to appeals of delay or promises of deathbed repentance by the House of Lords and doggedly stuck to the determination to make an immediate appeal to the constituencies, and, unfortunately, in the way of music, literature, songs, dances and pastimes."

Nobody has much doubt of the result. The Liberals at the worst will return about the same strength—at the best may add twenty or thirty seats. Some ambiguity is seen by extreme Liberals in the statement of Asquith with regard to the demand for guarantees from the King, but a close study of his words, and especially his promise to stand by his famous pledge of last April just before Edward's death to demand the guarantees and create new Peers if necessary, proves that Asquith goes into the fight with power to cause the defeat of the nation, if favorable to be followed by the destruction of the veto, with or without the assent of the House of Lords.

Bankrupt of any good cry, the Tories, who last week in their chief organs were discussing home rule as a rational proposal and a political possibility, have turned in an awkward and somewhat Redmond was described as quite sweetly reasonable two weeks ago. He again has become a villain of Tory melodrama and American dollars and has become the chief object of Tory vituperation. One Tory orator declared that Ireland was to be sold for 200,000 American acres, and that about "foreign dictation." Correspondents of English journals search American papers to find articles to damage the Irish party.

The outburst of abuse of Redmond and the Americans who have subscribed to Irish funds will force home rule again to the foremost line of battle and make it clear for the Liberals to carry home rule if their constituencies once more give them a majority.

Liberal papers make great use of the support given home rule by eminent Canadians and ask if Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan; McBride, Premier of British Columbia, and Gouin, Premier of Quebec, are to be counted among the "American traitors" who wish to destroy the British empire. The truth is the Irish Orange tail once more has got control of the Tory party and has borne down Balfour and all the rational men of the party, and once again Ireland is made the page of battle. The breakdown of the conference undoubtedly delays the settlement of home rule for some time, but a good Liberal victory at the coming election will shorten that interval perceptibly and will make home rule certain. It is significant that the Tories already suggest a second conference. Repentance and terror follow the debacle over the budget last year and over the rupture of the conference this year with extraordinary rapidity. Never have political drunkards had so bad a morning after head.

PLANNING MONUMENT.

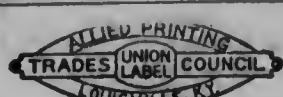

Friends of the late Rev. Dr. Lambert, pastor of the Church of the Assumption at Scottsville, N. Y., and editor of the New York Freeman's Journal, are planning to erect a splendid monument to his memory at Scottsville, where he labored so long.

ADVENT.

Advent begins on Sunday, November 27. This is the season for the preparation for the great feast of Christmas. There are four Sundays in Advent typifying the four thousand years before Christ. During this time we should prepare our hearts for the coming of our Redeemer. Like the people of the Old Testament, we should sigh for Jesus, for Jesus who renews the world and brings salvation and happiness to all.

JOHNSON'S BIG MAJORITY.

Commenting on the Danville Advocate's forced admission that the Hon. Ben Johnson, Congressman-elect from the Fourth district and candidate for Governor of Kentucky, made a good race, the Shelby Record, one of the best and most influential Democratic weeklies in the State, pointedly says:

"Yes, Johnson carried every county in his district, his own and Gov. Beckham's county, Nelson, by an increased majority, and doubled the Democratic majority in the Fourth district. The home county of every one of the four candidates for Governor went Democratic except Madison, in which ex-Senator McCreary lives, and it gave a Republican majority. Wonder if the Advocate thinks McCreary can run as well as Ben Johnson."

Editor Shinnick has rendered the Democratic party valiant service and comes near knowing "who is who" when it comes to naming the best man for the next gubernatorial race.

HAND IN HAND.

The attitude of the great body of Catholics of this country toward the trades union was plainly stated last week at the American Federation of Labor by the Rev. Father Peter E. Dietz, who holds a commission from the Ohio State Labor Federation. Declaring that the American Federation of Catholic Societies holds out to trades unionism the hand of fellowship and support, Father Dietz says:

"We realize and recognize that trades unionism is a primary element in the regulation of industrial society. We fail to see how within proper limits it can in any way prove injurious to the common welfare. Every business enterprise must be subject to the common welfare, and any business enterprise that to succeed rests upon a rate of wages and conditions detrimental to a decent livelihood and unworthy of manhood ought never to see the light of day. We realize that the American Federation of Labor has been a most effective institution for the protection of the rights and liberty of the American working men. We believe that at heart it offers a safe, real, constructive, sane and Christian solution of many of our social problems. It has always been guided by conservatism, and precisely because of this, the American Federation of Labor deserves the sympathy and active support of that larger portion of our American population which is the constituency of the American Federation of Catholic Societies."

EVENING WEDDINGS.

The Irish Standard notes rather seriously the custom of having the wedding ceremony performed in the evening, which seems to it to be growing among Catholics. For Catholics marriage is a most solemn sacramental union which can be dissolved only by death, and though the church does perform the ceremony without a mass, it is nevertheless her earnest desire that whenever it is possible Catholics should be married in the morning with a nuptial mass. In order to give particular dignity to the ceremony she has provided in her liturgy a special mass for bride and bridegroom. As a mark of still greater importance and solemnity she even goes so far as to disregard the ordinary custom by admitting the married couple into the sanctuary and by interrupting the canon of the mass to insert special prayers for their welfare. In view of the sacramental aspect of the ceremony and the special importance which the church attaches to it there does not seem to be any good reason why young Catholic people entering the wedded state should forego the blessings of the nuptial mass for the sake of having the ceremony performed at a fashionable hour. The banks of palms and ferns and the other gorgeous decorations of a parlor may form a beautiful setting, but when the palms and ferns have withered they only add to the desolation of the scene they once adorned. Something more enduring is needed to make life permanently happy. It is right that we should go to God only in our sadder hours, only when we want to ask for aid? No, it is not right. We should go when we are happy as well as when we are sad. The wedding day should be a happy day, and surely it is more likely to be a happy day for those who observe the recommendations of the church and have the marriage ceremony performed in the morning hour and with a nuptial mass. "What words can suffice to tell the happiness of that marriage which the church unites, the oblation confirms, the blessing seals, the angels announce, the Father acknowledges!"

Because the Irish people treat him with due respect the Rev. James Bold, of the "Irish Home Mission Board," should not be deceived into thinking they will desert the one true and only living church. He may wish that the fate of France and Italy and Portugal, causing confusion and bloodshed, may befall Ireland, but that is as far as it will go. Ireland has ever been and always will be true to the faith planted by St. Patrick. Coming from a minister, Bold's predictions attract attention only because of their lack of Christian spirit.

The chill in the air admonishes us in regard to the season that is approaching and the necessity of making proper preparations for the same. It also reminds charitably disposed persons of the obligation that rests upon them to help their less fortunate neighbors to escape, as far as possible, its rigors. It is the hardest season of the year for the poor and needy.

The trusts find their only encouragement for the immediate future in the prospective Congressional deadlock. All the same those behind them are given food for serious thought. The election this year served notice upon them that the patience of the American people had about reached its limit.

Advocates of liberty and good government are not inclined to blame the Irish Nationalist leaders for the use of their power in the emergency that has arisen. From every point of view they would be foolish to surrender their advantage.

The season's football fatalities thus far number at least sixteen, while fifty players have been badly injured. And this is the game for which our schools and colleges waste much time that would be better devoted to intellectual training.

Money for another Louisville census would mean money thrown away. Forget this one and begin earnest work for the desired showing ten years hence.

All cowards may not be anonymous letter writers, but all anonymous letter writers are cowards.

MISS EGAN.

Our Minister's Daughter Fascinates Foreign Count.

Denmark's capital greatly regretted the departure of Miss Carmel Egan, the unmarried daughter of the American Minister at the Danish Court at Copenhagen, who has returned to this country to spend the Christmas holidays.

Miss Egan's popularity at court and in society in Denmark is largely due to her exquisite dancing and her wonderful blue eyes. Shortly before she went to America a dance would have been given at the American Legation for her sake in honor of young Princess Irene of Russia, one of the Czar's numerous kinsfolk, had not court mourning stood in the way. But the difficulty was solved by the Admiral and officers of the Russian imperial yacht Standard, which had brought the Russian imperial family to Europe and was anchored in the harbor here. They gave the dance on board their luxurious ship and Miss Egan was a belle of the evening.

SURPRISE EUCHE CLUB.

Mrs. George Miller will entertain the Surprise Euchre Club next Wednesday evening, November 30, at her residence, 371 North Twenty-sixth street, and has secured several handsome and unique prizes to be awarded the winners.

THANKSGIVING.

Give thanks this day for all we share,
Let us not like the lepers be;
For God will listen to every prayer
If we give thanks for blessings free.

We thank Thee, God, for all thy gifts
We thank Thee now for grace this year;
We thank Thee for thy sunlight rifts
That made the cloudy way so clear.

We praise, O Lord, thy wondrous ways;
We praise this day with angels bright;
Accept this day our thankful praise
And guide us o'er the path of right.

SOCIETY.

J. C. Hines was among the Louisvilleans who registered last week in New York City.

Henry Meschendorf and wife, of Crescent Hill, are away on a trip through the South.

Miss Mary Whalen was hostess to her card club at her home in Portland on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. George S. Meenan is home from week's visit to Mrs. James Meenan in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Will Newman, of Clifton, has been spending a week with relatives and friends in Frankfort.

S. P. and Nelson Owen left Wednesday on a hunting trip in the neighborhood of Big Chilly.

Mrs. John Gorman, of South Louisville, had as her guest last week Mrs. C. J. Sanders, of Brooks.

Miss Marie G. Viglino was one of the number from this city who has been spending a week in New York.

Miss Clara Flood and mother, of Portland, were last week the guests of Mrs. R. B. Adams at Flora Heights.

Mrs. J. J. Cain, who has been ill of grip at her home, 1204 West Broadway, is reported much improved.

Johnnie Keep and mother, Mrs. Rebecca Keep, have returned from a pleasant visit to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dawson at New Haven.

Harry J. Heunessy returned today from St. Louis, where he has been visiting for the past several days as the guest of B. J. Donahue.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCloskey, for several years residents of Clifton, left last week for Boston, where they will make their future home.

Misses Beale Rapior and Fannie Thompson and Sylvester Rapior, Jr., of New Haven, were week end visitors to Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Dant.

Mrs. Harry Cassin will give a linen shower at her home in the Highlands next Wednesday from 3 to 5 o'clock in honor of Miss Alma McCarthy.

Dr. F. F. Sullivan with a party of professional colleagues will attend the Ohio State dental convention at Columbus on December 6, 7 and 8.

Will J. Semonia and family have moved into their country home near Jeffersonton. Mrs. Mollie Shafter will reside with them for the winter.

Mrs. Philip Ames, of New Salisbury, Ind., arrived last week to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with her sister, Mrs. Charles Schreiber, in Portland.

Mrs. J. H. Welch, of South Louisville, entertained at dinner for Misses Laura Paris, Jennie Wells and Ella Hartman and Mr. Ollie Parol, of Jeffersonton.

J. J. Driscoll left Tuesday for a several days' visit to Newport News, where he will be the guest of Brother Ambrose, of the Xaverian Brothers, who is a brother of Mr. Driscoll.

William Egan, a well known Jeffersonton railroad man, left this week for St. Petersburg, Fla., where he will spend the winter on account of his health, which has not been good for the past ten months.

Miss Lillian Sheehan and Joseph Heltz, well known and popular in New Albany, were united in marriage at Holy Trinity church on Thanksgiving day, Rev. Charles Curran performing the ceremony.

The marriage of Joseph C. Schwartzel, of New Albany, and Miss Catherine Moellman, whose engagement has just been announced, will take place in January. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Moellman.

Hon. William F. Blair and wife, of Lexington, stopped here for a brief visit the first part of the week. They were en route home from West Baden Springs, where Mr. Blair had been for the benefit of his health, which had not been the best for the past month.

The marriage of James B. Newton and Miss Mary McDermott took place Wednesday at St. Louis Bertrand's church, in the presence of many of their friends. The bride is the charming sister of John McDermott, and the groom is a prominent and influential resident of Jeffersonton.

The engagement of Miss Anna Lee Tully and Edward F. Smith has just been announced, the marriage to take place at the Cathedral of the Assumption on Friday, December 23. The bride is the pretty and accomplished daughter of John J. Tully, the well known tent and awning maker, while the groom is connected with the electrical department of the Kentucky Electric Company.

Miss Jane McIntyre and Robert A. Sullivan were quietly married Thursday afternoon at St. William's church, the only attendants being Miss Anna May McBride, a niece of the groom, and James G. Wood. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan left for an extended Eastern tour and on their return will make their home at Corbin, Ky. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

One of the prettiest of the week's weddings was that of Miss Molly Keiran and Christopher Lynch, which occurred Thursday afternoon at St. Frances of Rome church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas W. White, and was witnessed by a large number of friends of the contracting parties, who have been prominent in East End society circles. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Owen Keiran and a sister of Edward Keiran, County Secretary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

A marriage of much interest was that of Miss Lorraine Hermes and George Marking, solemnized with a nuptial mass by the Rev. George Welas on Wednesday morning, and the first to take place in the new St. George's church on Eighteenth street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hermes, of 1836 Grand avenue. After a wedding breakfast and reception the bride and groom left for a Southern honeymoon trip. They will return about December 15 and be at home to their friends on the Cane Run road.

EDIFYING.

Macklin Council's Visit to St. Anthony's On Sunday.

Never before did Macklin Council make such a creditable public showing as on last Sunday morning, when the members assembled at St. Anthony's church and received holy communion in a body at the high mass for their departed brethren. The immense church was thronged when the Rev. Father Scraphim ascended the altar, and the Gregorian choir rendered a special musical programme.

At the club house the entire afternoon was devoted to the initiation of a class of forty-nine candidates, the degree team doing its work in a most satisfactory and impressive manner. Especially interesting and exciting was the surprise introduced by Louis Straub, James T. Shelley and Attorney P. T. Sullivan, which for a few minutes had all present wondering what would happen.

Following the initiation the new members were banqueted at the Galt House, where President John Kenney delivered the address of welcome and Aug. J. Blot presided as toastmaster. After justice had been done the tempting menu was served and responded to by the Rev. Scraphim Schlang, O. M. C., William T. McNally, Camden R. McAtee, Louis J. Kleffer, Hon. Sam J. Robertson, Judge Samuel Boldrick and Irvington Earl. The responses were eloquent and appropriate, and brought to a fitting close the most edifying and successful day in Macklin's history.

ONLY HALF.

Great Tumble in Debt On St. Michael's Church.

The members and friends of St. Michael's church on Brook street are surprised and delighted with the work of their pastor, Rev. Martin O'Connor. When Father O'Connor took charge of St. Michael's about four years ago he was confronted with a church debt of $12,055.66. Statement of the financial condition of the church just prepared shows the present indebtedness to be only $6,350, a wonderful showing indeed. Besides this Father O'Connor has made and paid for many improvements on both the church and rectory. In addition to new altar supplies and a new set of candles, twelve handsome statues and seven paintings have been grouped around the three altars. This astonishing tumble in debt figures in so short a time speaks volumes for the ability of Father O'Connor as a financier, and gives assurance that it will not be long until the indebtedness is entirely wiped out.

St. Michael's is now a well organized ladies' and children's sewing circle, the aim of which will be to outclass in the way of fancy work anything yet seen at the annual bazaar, which will open February 27.

HAPPILY WEDDED.

St. Patrick's church was thronged with friends and well wishers at 9:30 o'clock Thanksgiving morning when John Riley led to the altar Miss Mayme Sullivan. The bride was handsomely attired and presented a lovely appearance. Very Rev. James P. Cronin, V. G., performed the ceremony and was the celebrant of the nuptial mass. Upon leaving the church the happy young couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Sullivan, on Twentieth street, where followed a reception that lasted until Mr. and Mrs. Riley departed in the evening for Chicago and the Northwest. All day the house was thronged with friends who brought handsome presents and showered the bride and groom with congratulations.

HOLIDAY SALE MEETING.

The last meeting for the Good Shepherd coming holiday sale will be held Monday night, when the final arrangements and appointments will be announced. All the Chairmen and their assistants will be present. The sale will open next Wednesday and continue the remainder of the week.

REMARKABLE.

Record Made by the Catholic Knights and Ladies.

The announcement last week that Branch 2 of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America would celebrate its twentieth anniversary Wednesday night was sufficient to throng Robinson Hall to the doors. Patrick Holley, one of the organizers and the first and only President, delivered the address of welcome, in which he congratulated the members upon the success of the branch and order, which had met promptly all obligations and had a record surpassed by no other society. He made a strong appeal to his hearers to work for the order and induce their friends to become members. Much of the success of Branch 2, he said, was due to the long and faithful service of Secretary James Coleman, Miss Mary Corcoran, Joseph Vetter and Miss Mary Sheridan.

Miss Mary Sheridan reviewed the history of the branch since its organization by the venerated Father Lawler, when it started with eighteen members, twelve of whom are still living. In all these years there had been but fifty-nine deaths, and for $102,435 had been paid beneficiaries a splendid record for any organization with an average of 300 members.

Following a solo and encore for David Maloney, James Coleman, Lawrence Mackey, William M. Higgins, Thomas Keenan and George Butler were called upon and urged the Knights and Ladies to look forward and keep up their splendid record. The musical programme included an artistic violin and piano duet by Mrs. David Maloney and Elizabeth Shea, and vocal solos by Miss Mary Snipp and Miss Mary Corcoran, all receiving hearty encores. Upon adjourning all repaired to the refreshment room, where a dainty luncheon was served.

FIRST PLACE.

Being Eagerly Sought by Men of Division 3, A. O. H.

That the officers and members of Division 3, A. O. H., are determined to occupy first place in the Hibernian column was shown by the work of the meeting held Monday night, when James Flinerty was obligated and four more applications for membership were received. For the past two years there has been an earnest but friendly struggle for the place held so long by Division 4 and the men of Limerick, and the race has now become close and interesting. All the officers and an unusually large number of members were present when President P. T. Sullivan opened the meeting, which was short but interesting. Lawrence J. Mackey in an address told what the local Catholic Federation was doing, and appealed to the delegates and members to attend the meetings and give the body more encouragement.

HOLY ROSARY ALUMNAE.

Holy Rosary Alumnae held its monthly meeting at the Academy, last Saturday afternoon. The "Swan Song," by Greig, was charmingly rendered by Miss Anastasia Walsh, and the piano selections by the Misses Huber and Carr gave evidence of the superior musical training received in their alma mater, but the treat of the afternoon was still in store for the members. It consisted of a graphic description of the Eucharistic Congress, by Rev. J. R. Clark, O. P. While it was not the privilege of any member of the audience to have attended the Eucharistic Congress, they felt as though the great pleasure had been theirs, so eloquently did Father Clark describe the devotion and love manifested by the many thousands of souls assembled in Montreal, from all parts of the universe, to render homage to our Lord in the Most Blessed Sacrament. After the collation of several new members the President, Mrs. Parsons, closed the meeting.

RETURNS FROM FUNERAL.

Harry B. Driver, President of the Domestic Laundry Company, has returned from Philadelphia, where he was called last week by the illness and death of his venerable mother. Mrs. Driver was over eighty years of age and was one of the most highly esteemed women in the Quaker City. Of a quiet, gentle nature, her whole life until she became an invalid was spent in ministering to others, especially those of her own household, and the impress she left upon the community in which she resided will long survive.

CONNERS—SHANKS.

In St. Paul's church on Thanksgiving afternoon Miss Margaret H. Shanks, daughter of Theodore Shanks and a young woman of many prepossessing qualities, was married to Corporal William J. Connors, of the Louisville police department, by the Rev. Thomas York, pastor of the church. The ceremony was witnessed by friends and acquaintances from all sections of the city, and was followed by a reception in honor of the bride and groom.

GREAT MISSION.

One of the most fruitful missions ever given in Louisville is now in progress at St. Patrick's church, conducted by the Dominicans, Fathers O'Connor and Cleary. The services next week will be for the men of the parish, and will be at the same hours as during the past week. Vicar General Cronin is much pleased with the results, and looks for the church to be thronged every night until the mission closes.

NINETEEN VACANCIES.

Through the death of Cardinal Samministrelli, which occurred at Rome on Thursday, the number of vacancies in the Sacred College has been raised to nineteen.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

In their bowling league the Cincinnati Knights have eighteen teams.

Last week at Syracuse a good class was received into LeMoine Council. Milwaukee Council last week conferred the second and third degrees upon a class of fifty.

The new exemplification for the fourth degree will be made an important factor in work in the future.

Indianapolis had an initiation this week. Monday night the council will have a "stag smoker" as a farewell to its Washington street quarters.

Milwaukee Knights have contributed to the expense fund for maintaining a Catholic chaplain at the State Industrial School for boys at Waukesha.

Two local priests and a number of students of Niagara University were included in the last class initiated at Niagara Falls. The second degree will be exemplified tomorrow.

An excellent programme has been arranged for the meeting in Jeffersonville on Monday night, when steps will be taken to arouse a lively interest for the coming winter.

The Knights of Binghamton entertained the C. M. B. A. at a delightful forty-five card party, with Musical Director Cupero, of Dockstad's minstrels, as a guest of the evening.

CHIMES

Will Soon Be Heard From St. Augustine's Church.

With impressive exercises and in the presence of a large gathering of people the new chimes for St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville were solemnly blessed Wednesday evening by Bishop Joseph Chartrand, of Indianapolis, who came especially for the purpose. The services were held in the church, the assistants to the Bishop being the Rev. Charles Curran, of New Albany; Rev. John O'Connor, of Louisville; Rev. William Seibert, of Louisville; Rev. Donald Manning, of Louisville; Rev. Isadore Menner, of New Albany, and Rev. Andrew J. Brady, of Louisville. In addition to those mentioned quite a number of visiting priests were also present. The chimes were purchased in Baltimore and the Rev. John O'Connell, pastor of the St. Augustine's church, is justly proud of them. They arrived a few days before their blessing and are now ready to be placed in position, the preliminary work to that end having been done. The bells are three in number and weigh respectively 2,100 pounds, 1,050 pounds and 650 pounds. The chimes are the first ever used in Jeffersonville or Southern Indiana, and are of the most modern pattern.

CEDAR GROVE.

The Sisters and pupils of Cedar Grove Academy, Thirty-third and Rudd avenues, gave a delightful musical and literary entertainment Wednesday afternoon. One of the most pleasing numbers was "Music on the Rappahannock," young ladies representing the North and South and attired in blue and gray, each in turn speaking and calling attention to the beautiful music of the bygone days, with a final ending of "Home, Sweet Home," and all reunited. The "Te Deum" was also well rendered by the entire school. A number of former graduates were among the number in attendance. The good Sisters of Cedar Grove may well feel proud of their splendid school.

HAVE GONE EAST.

Attorney J. J. Kavanagh and bride, who was Miss Alma Bruce Owens, are spending their honeymoon in the East. Their marriage was a quiet one and took place at the rectory of St. Louis Bertrand church on Tuesday. Both young people have a host of friends who wish them a long, happy and useful life.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY.

Justin McCarthy, the famous Irish statesman, historian and novelist, received a flood of congratulations from friends throughout the world Tuesday on the occasion of his eightieth birthday anniversary. Mr. McCarthy, who has long been regarded as one of the foremost living men of letters, was born in Cork in 1830, and at an early age began his career as a reporter in the gal-

WARNING.Archbishop Glennon Pictures
the Church as Mother of Unions.Bespeaks Pope Leo as Sanest
Thinker On Labor
Problems.Christ's Sacrifice On Calvary
Created First Brotherhood.LESSON FROM THE ELECTION

Last Sunday in St. Louis Archbishop Glennon addressed several hundred delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention at St. Lawrence O'Toole's Catholic church, Fourteenth and O'Fallon streets. His remarks, while tempered with courtesy and delicacy of expression, hit squarely against certain tendencies, notably the domination of the saloon in labor politics and the Socialistic doctrine of State control to the submergence of the individual. He calmly presented the Catholic church as the mother of labor unions who needed no preamble for welcoming her child. The sacrifice of the cross introduced the idea of brotherhood, and no labor theories have surpassed those of Leo XIII. The Archbishop saw and named responsibilities of capitalists,
but he said to the laboring man:

"Pray not alone for the prosperity
and progress of the laboring man, but pray for all the citizens of our nation; pray for all those for whom Christ hath died, who are, through Him, our brothers." On the liquor question, the Archbishop gave keen counsel, and made striking deductions from the recent election. Trouble began, he declared, through those teachers who would say to the laboring man that, having so little,
it is scarcely worth while for him to preserve the little that he has.

"Consequently many of our laboring men, swept away by these inflated ambitions," he continued,
"spend the little that they have, become unable to create for themselves and their children a home, join the proletarian school with their so-called brothers in distress, congregate in the neighboring saloon, and there, over the fumes of the beer mug and the wine glass, create a philosophy that fills them with passion and class hatred and turns them into wolf-men. The beer mug and the wine glass are the enemies of society; specifically the enemies of the laboring man. If the saloon stands between you and your duties,
it should go."

"We had an election here about a week ago, and the result of it was that the people of Missouri were not prepared for the complete inhibition of the liquor traffic. They voted against it, and voted against the such forces and such numbers as will apparently stay the onward march of prohibition for a long time. But it seems to me there is also written in the results of the polls, it may be between the lines, it may be only in imagination, but I believe it is written there just as clearly as the other,
that the people of today are dissatisfied with the methods that obtain in the liquor traffic of Missouri, and that the duty of the saloon man is to clean up his place; that if he doesn't clean up, he will before long have to clear out."

The Archbishop spoke of the guilds and the arts and crafts of the Middle Ages under the protection of the Catholic church, which in handling the affairs of the workman,
man, and giving him advice, had "twenty centuries of experience." While admitting the value of the protection of the State in correcting many abuses, the Archbishop said that the individuality of each man must be left intact.

"We have the right and duty to preserve from State control our individual consciences, our souls, and our homes," he said. "We do not want a condition to arise where we are all tenants of a soulless State. We have such institutions, the poorhouse and the penitentiary. We utterly abhor the teaching that the children of our homes are the wards of the State, common property. Children in common have lack of it percentage in common, and that abhorrent idea is not only the end of our order, it is the end of civilization itself."

"I would like to see our laboring men become in part capitalists, just as I would like to see our capitalists join the ranks of labor, and I would like to see that result attained not by State interference, but by individual conditions. You can all what name you will, co-partners or co-operators, I would like to see our so-called 'owners' of capital realize that while they may have a title to the capital, it is not a title that excludes all other claims or relations.
There is a trusteeship in their ownership, and they are trustees not alone
for their own welfare and emolument, but for the welfare and benefit of society at large."

Finally the Archbishop commended Leo XIII's encyclical on labor as the most advanced ideas yet advanced on the labor question, all of which were based on the teachings of Christ.

A pleasing sight to the regular attendants of St. Lawrence O'Toole's was the presence once more of the former pastor of many years, Rev.
Martin S. Brennan, who was master of ceremonies, and stood throughout the mass before the altar which he had served so long. Rev. Fathers O'Brien and Dooly supported the Archbishop, and the celebrant of the mass was Rev. Father Dietz, of Oberlin, Ohio, with Father Morgan
as deacon and Father Carr as sub-deacon.

with harp and shamrocks in gold and profusely illustrated under the title "Irish Folk Music." Containing 360 pages, it is a fascinating book for every one to read, especially those with Irish blood and a love for old Erin, her music and songs. The author, after years of study and research, shows how the best airs and music of Ireland have been adopted and claimed by England, Scotland and Wales as their own by O'Neill gives the original Irish title or name as played by the old harpers and pipers of Ireland years before the compilation of the first national countries were known.

Capt. O'Neill is the compiler and publisher of "The Music of Ireland,"
"The Dance Music of Ireland" and
"O'Neill's Irish Music for Piano or Violin," containing over 900 tunes taken from rare manuscripts or noted down from the lilt and singing of old people and musicians of the present day while he toured Ireland, and now for the first time published. The books are for sale
by Lyon & Healy, of Chicago. Capt.
O'Neill deserves the lasting gratitude of the Irish race for bringing out of oblivion and preserving for the future the sweet and soul-stirring music of Ireland.

"Cold—cold must the heart be and void emotion
That loves not the music of Erin-go-bragh."

NOMINATIONSWill Be Made On Monday
Night by Mackin
Council.

Mackin Council had a rousing meeting Monday night, when the membership contest was decided in favor of the team headed by George J. Lutz. During the contest sixty-two members were elected, and because of the closeness of the race the winners generously divided the prizes with their opponents. So enthusiastic were the members over the splendid result that it was decided to have another initiation on Washington's birthday. Dr. J. A. Casper, Charles Rindy and George Lutz being appointed a committee to make the arrangements. Councilman Ben Sand was the unanimous choice and was recommended to Grand President Lawo, of Memphis, for appointment to the office of Council Deputy.
Monday night officers for the next year will be nominated, and this will bring out a big attendance.

HURT HIS FOOT.

Benjamin Hinkebein, well known in Catholic circles, has been wondered to his home, 123 East Market street, New Albany, suffering from an injured foot. The injury was caused by a heavy timber falling on the foot, and it may be several days before he can return to his work.

SAILED FOR EUROPE.

Edward J. O'Brien, the noted tobacco buyer, and daughter, Miss Marie O'Brien, sailed Monday from New York City on the George Washington for Europe. They will make a hurried trip and hope to be home for the Christmas holidays.

ASHLAND.

The Knights of Columbus of Ashland entertained a large gathering Tuesday night with the most delicious euchre and dance ever given in the city. Three popular Ashland girls, Misses Loretta Sorey, Frances O'Kelly and Kate Mantle, went to Cincinnati to spend Thanksgiving and visit relatives for several weeks.

FOR WOMAN'S EYE.

Corsage bouquets of shaded pink ribbon are extremely pretty.

The craze for Indian head work shows no signs of diminishing.

Black veils always lend distinctive touch to a gown of any color.

Evening cloaks of velvet and silk brocade are gorgeous and beautiful.

Zibelines are having quite a modish revival in the dress goods realm.

Revers must be supple and large.
If velvet is used it must be of the softest.

Some of the scarfs are caught together with small rosebuds made of ribbon.

Tulle and lace are now combined on many of the attractive collars and pinnas.

Hats lined with roses fashioned from black silk are used on mourning hats.

Ribbon flowers of white silk flatly applied to the hat of black beaver are most effective.

This is to be a fur season, and wraps and coats of sable and seal
are in first fashion.

Metallic nets and laces play an important part in the construction of most of the theater caps.

Novelties appearing on the new outing hats are wings of suede. They are remarkably odd and pretty.

For dancing frocks for young girls
the bordered chiffons or plain or flowered nets made over china silk offer splendid possibilities at a low cost.

TREASURE.House of the Word That Will Last Until the End of Time.Catholic Churches Open From Gray Dawn Until the Sun Sets.Magnificent Ideal Ought to Be
Dear to Christian
Heart.MESSAGE IS FOR THE NATION

Our Catholic churches are always open, from the gray dawn of the morning until the sun sets in the west, says the Pittsburg Catholic.
Go at whatever hour you may into any one of the churches and you will always find some one there before you; isolated individuals, here and there a group, some kneeling in the pews, others before the altar, and engaged in prayer. Thus a magnificent ideal and one which ought to be dear to every Catholic heart is constantly, if more or less unconsciously, being fulfilled, and chiefly by those who match a few minutes from their daily toil to come and make a visit to the Blessed Sacrament, or recite a decade of the Rosary for present needs or future hopes and fears. So much then for the open church as it serves the needs of its children. Many of our beloved converts owe their conversion to a visit to a Catholic church, a walk around the interior; and although,
of course, in the majority of cases this implies nothing more than the satisfaction of the promptings of idle curiosity, there is always here and there that awakening of a higher consciousness, which, under God's guidance, and if rightly pursued, leads up to the gift of faith. The impressiveness of a Catholic church,
the silent teaching of its symbols,
the associations they recall nearly always combine to produce a very definite effect upon the stranger of alien creed, and the result is far reaching and intense.

It is not the inanimate brick
or stone of the church that appeals, although splendid architecture may appear. It achieves its purpose since in the altar, with the ever burning lamp, is revealed the Treasure which wins the rapt and adoring soul. Here is the ever living message to the world and to give that message the altar stands in the city's midst, where all may see it, and where the busy streams of worldly efforts must pass, just as faith in the supernatural must not be ashamed to stand where indifference, doubt and disbelief of the world may jostle or affect to despise it.

The open church asserts as no other place can assert that Catholicism is not a mere parochial concern, addressing itself to the poor and to some few aristocrats and converts,
but that its message is for the nation, and for all nations; and it is for today, as it was for centuries ago, and as it will be for all continues to be. It is a ceaseless message that faith must be unflinchingly manifested, that it must show its quality amidst the aims and the achievements of the world, must rise more loftily and more lastingly endure than they. It is a message, a testament and a treasure house of the Word that shall not pass away.

WINS FAME.Miss Margaret Claire to Sing at Bachelet
Concert.

Miss Margaret Claire, of Atlanta,
Ga., is making a name for herself
in England as well as on the continent. She recently appeared in Italian opera at Birmingham. She had accepted an engagement with the Castellano Grand Opera Company—which had sung in London with decided success—by wire at two days' notice and had to appear on evening of her arrival in Birmingham without any rehearsal. The brilliance of her singing and her perfect vocalization drew the warmest tributes from the critics. Miss Claire has already appeared in Paris with great success and has been engaged to sing there in the first of Alfred Bachelet's orchestral concert. Parisians will then hear for the first time music from Rimsky Kosa-koff's new Russian opera. Miss Claire will sing some of its principal lyric numbers. M. Bachelet, a famous composer, never before engaged an American for his concerts.

CHANGE FOR O'HEARN.

Thomas O'Hearn, for several years
the popular chief timekeeper at the Jeffersonville plant of the American Car and Foundry Company, left Saturday for Missouri to take a similar position with the plant at St.
Charles. Few men had more friends in Jeffersonville, and though regretting his departure only good wishes
follow him into his new position.

PATIENCE THE REFUGE.

Be patient with your critical friends. They are neither omniscient nor omnipotent. They cannot see your heart, and may misunderstand you. They do not know what is best in you, and may select what is worst. Their arms are short, and they may not be able to reach what you ask. What if they also lack purity of purpose or tenacity of affection? Do not you also lack these graces? Patience is your refuge.
Endure your criticizing friends and in enduring conquer them, and if not them, then at least yourself.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week--General News Notes.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Paul gave a reception and banquet in honor of their new County President, Mrs. C. J. Conroy.

The divisions that are most active in adding to their membership are the ones that show the most devotion to the principles of Hibernianism.

This has been a prosperous year for the Ancient Order in Louisville. Not a division has decreased in membership and all have increased their financial standing.

Division 2 of Syracuse has free drawings to increase the attendance. For the next meeting there will be an entertainment, after which supper will be served.

Division 2 will be the first to meet in December, next Friday night. As the business will be of unusual importance President Ford would like to see every member present.

County President Maurice Donnelly presided and the Ladies' Auxiliary rendered a fine musical programme at the Manchester martyrs' memorial meeting at Indianapolis.

Division 2 of San Francisco donated $100 to aid the children of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum of that city, who were recently distressed when the structure was destroyed by fire.

The feature of a recent joint meeting of Divisions 1 and 2 of Norwich, Conn., was the presentation of a purse of gold to Rev. William A. Keefe, transferred from that city to Voluntary.

Members of Division 1 will be gratified to learn that David Whalen has almost recovered from an illness of typhoid fever that confined him to his home on Eighteenth street for the past month.

Scarcely a night passes in Minneapolis and St. Paul without a card party, dancing party, literary party or other entertainment by either a division or auxiliary. And they help build up the order.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be unusually interesting from the fact that the election of officers to serve for the next two years will then be held. A large attendance is looked for.

The Boston Hibernian predicts that Congressman James M. Curley will make good in Washington. He has been a member of the Ancient Order for years and is a constant attendant at the meetings.

Division 4 meets Monday night and President Hennessy requests the presence of all members. Several applications are expected, and also a report from the committee arranging the social programme for the winter months.

Boston will soon have a Hibernian hall in every section. Jamaica Plain, Charlestown, South Boston and East Boston have halls at present, and Roxbury and South End will erect fine new buildings before the next winter comes around.

Approving the efforts of the Ancient Order to have Irish history taught in parochial schools, Archbishop Messmer says that in his opinion no Catholic is educated who does not know the struggle of Ireland for her faith and nationality.

Some time ago the Ancient Order of Australia decided to raise the sum of one thousand pounds ($500) towards the completion of St. Mary's Cathedral, Sydney, N. S. W. The money will be presented to Cardinal Moran, Archbishop of Sydney, on the celebration of His Eminence's Cardinalatial silver jubilee. The Cardinal has addressed a letter of congratulation and thanks to the Hibernians.

Appointments Announced by Grand President Laws.

Grand President George Lawo has announced his appointments for the Kentucky jurisdiction, in which Louisville was given marked recognition. For District Deputy he named George Lautz, former Grand Secretary, with jurisdiction extended to the entire State. Councilman Ben Sand was appointed Council Deputy and will enter upon his duties at once.

In a circular just issued by Grand Secretary Harbour is promulgated the appointment of the Committee on Laws and Supervision, one of the most important in the order. The members named are George J. Lautz and Hon. Samuel J. Robertson, of Mackin Council, and John L. Cunniff, of Trinity Council. To this committee will be referred all proposed changes in laws and matters upon which there is a difference of opinion between councils.

Secretary Harbour reports the councils in his jurisdiction in excellent condition, and states that with the beginning of the new year two more will be organized. The present Grand officers are making an earnest effort to make a record that will surpass that of their predecessors and stand for years to come.

YOUNG LIFE ENDED.

Sunday evening the grim reaper called from this life Walter F. Crawley, the sixteen-year-old son of John and Kate Crawley, 730 South Thirteenth street, after a two days' illness of peritonitis. The sad news was a great shock to his many friends and relatives, who feel the most sincere sympathy for the bereaved family. Besides his parents eight brothers and sisters survive. The funeral took place from the Cathedral and was largely attended.

FOOTBALL VICTIM.

Merlin Hogan, son of Police Capt. Michael Hogan, suffered serious injuries in a football game last Saturday. Young Hogan is attending St. Mary's College at Lebanon, and is a member of one of the football teams.

connected with that institution. The accident occurred during a mass play, and when the scuffle was over the youth was found unconscious. When removed from the field a physician found that he had sustained fractures of an arm and leg. His condition was such that he could not be brought to his home in Louisville and he is being attended in the college infirmary.

ST. MARY'S.

Thursday morning in the presence of a brilliant assemblage the marriage of Walter J. Cusick and Miss Anna Feheolter was solemnized with a nuptial mass, Rev. Father Westerman officiating. This was one of the prettiest and most interesting of the Thanksgiving weddings, the bride and groom being widely known and prominent in Catholic society circles. The congratulations of a host of friends are extended to them.

MACAULEY'S.

A week of musical comedy is scheduled for Macauley's Theater, beginning Monday night, when "The Girl of My Dreams" will come from its long and successful run in Chicago. Johnny Hyams and Lella McIntyre head the clever company. Several song hits and an attractive chorus are among the features.

HOPKINS' THEATER.

Hopkins' Theater will have entirely new bills for next week, which will include genuine novelty and headline features. Among them will be clever singing turns and musical duets by the best vaudevilles talent and a run of excellent motion pictures. A complete change of programme will take place on Thursday.

AVENUE THEATER.

"As the Sun Went Down," which last year enjoyed a successful tour of forty weeks, will be next week's offering at the Avenue Theater. It is credited with being a play of powerful interest, with comedy interspersed and a decided Brete Harte atmosphere. The company is headed by Esther Williams, and the production will be elaborate and complete.

MASONIC.

Tim Murphy, always popular in Louisville, opens Monday night at Masonic Theater for four performances in "Mr. Opp," a role exactly suited to him. The scene of the play is laid in a little Kentucky town on the banks of the Ohio, and it shows Mr. Opp as the editor of the Opp Bugle, always striving to do good with a pathetic charity that equals the undaunted optimism of Mrs. Wiggs.

CASINO--ORPHEUM.

For next week the Casino and Orpheum have arranged the best programme of moving pictures ever shown in this city. They are all first run films and the scenes presented will be brought out with marvelous photographic effects. The comedy pictures will cause many hearty laughs and add materially to the attractiveness of the programme. There will be the usual illustrated songs and change of programme.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Hugh Maginn was elected Librarian of the Caheriveen Carnegie Library. There were five candidates.

John Nugent, auctioneer of Keady, at Armagh Quarter Sessions, sued the Keady Urban Council for damages, and was awarded one shilling.

At both masses in Cavan recently a letter was read from Most Rev. Dr. Fingegan, denouncing boxing contests as "an irreligious and demoralizing practice."

The death occurred at his residence in Enniscorthy of John Byrne, aged eighty-seven. Deceased was a prominent figure in the life of the town.

Thirty cattle, the property of Mrs. Langhan, of Foxford, were driven off the lands at Bohola, and the police had much difficulty in recovering them.

The Rev. Eustace L. Murphy, O. P., died recently at the West Convent, Galway, where he had spent the latter part of his life. He was born at Tuam in 1825.

Scutched flax in the Coleraine market has reached the record price of $22.42 per cwt. This figure is stated to be the highest recorded for over thirty years.

A third case of typhus fever has occurred in a family at Cloosh, four miles from Kinnara. The people of the district are in a panic, fearing the disease may spread.

The death of John Troacy, National teacher, Toomevara, is a loss to the cause of the Irish language in North Tipperary. He was the soul of every Gaelic League activity.

Five shots were fired at Thomas Kearin, a farmer of Kiltenera, County Clare, but he escaped injury. No arrests have been made. Two houses have been fired into in North Clare.

In Brookfield weaving factory at Banbridge a young worker named Hannah Johnston had her left arm caught in the machinery, the limb being so shockingly mangled that it had to be amputated.

The death has occurred of the Very Rev. Canon Sisk, Ballymacoda, Diocese of Cloyne, County Cork. For many years he was curate at Queens-town, where his zeal on behalf of his parishioners endeared him to his flock.

Out of five candidates E. McSweeney was elected Librarian of the new Carnegie Library, Kilkenny. The new librarian is an ex-Mayor of the city, but has not been a member of the Corporation for the past two or three years.

At a special court in Drogheda, Patrick F. Collier has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment in default of finding bail for driving two cattle off a grazing farm belonging to a man named Mullen, near Clogherhead.

In the Presentation Convent at Bandon Miss Annie Murphy, of Kinsale, and Miss Madge Ryan, of County Tipperary, were received into the order, taking the name of Sister Mary Josephine and Sister Mary Gertrude respectively.

At Skibberreen Quarter Sessions over one hundred and fifty ejectments were obtained against the tenantry on the Leigh-White estate, Castledown. The sums varied from $100 to $20. All proceedings had to be posted up at the Courthouse, as the process server swore he could not go near the district.

Two fire fatalities have occurred in Portaferry and its vicinity. The victim in the first case was a woman named Mrs. Alice Hillon, aged about sixty, who kept a small shop and lived alone. The second case occurred at Ballysaget National School, a little girl named McNamara getting behind a fire-screen in a classroom and having her clothes ignited.

INITIATION

At Trinity Council, Y. M. I., Next Monday Evening.

Trinity Council, Y. M. I., held a well attended meeting Monday evening, at which several applications were received. Fred Jonnewein, who was on the sick list, was reported improving. The ouche committee made a partial report of their last euchre, showing a neat profit on the venture. Trinity will hold a large initiation next Monday, November 23, and on the following Monday, December 5, will nominate and elect officers for the year 1911. The Entertainment Committee reported that before the close of the present year another "grosses Gastmahl" would be held for the members, and expect that it will meet with as much favor as the one given last year.

CORDIAL WELCOME.

Officers and members of Branch 4 of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America gathered in large numbers Wednesday night, at Bertrand Hall and tendered a cordial welcome to Inspector John B. Stickler. The branch was found in excellent condition and was complimented for the interest the members take in the order. Mr. Stickler's address was very encouraging and was well received. Other speakers were Attorney Newton G. Rogers and Peter Richards, of New Albany. Following the regular order of business an hour was devoted to social pleasure, when an abundance of refreshments were served. The evening was one of the most enjoyable and doubtless will be followed by others of like character.
